5 THINGS TO KNOW

WELCOME TO METRO BOSTON

JOE PANTORNO, SPORTS EDITOR

The Boston Bruins couldn't have picked a better time to come alive. In the home stretch of the 2018-19 regular season, the B's have collected points in 16 straight games to catapult toward the top of the Eastern Conference. How have they done it? Head inside to find out more.

Dems may have votes to block border emergency

1 Republican U.S. Sen. Rand Paul said he would vote in favor of a resolution to end President Donald Trump's U.S.-Mexico border emergency declaration, according to a media report, likely giving Democrats the votes to pass the measure in the Senate. Trump, who has promised to issue his first veto if the Senate approves the resolution, declared an emergency last month in a bid to fund a wall along the border without congressional approval. While the Senate appears unlikely to muster the two-thirds majority needed to override a veto, passage in the Republican-controlled chamber would be an embarrassment for the president, who has failed over more than two years in office to persuade Congress to fund his wall, a central promise of his presidential campaign. "I can't vote to give the president the power to spend money that hasn't been appropriated by Congress," Paul said.

Sacramento cops won't face criminal charges

2 Two Sacramento policemen who shot and killed an unarmed black man in a dark backyard last year will not be charged criminally in the case, the county prosecutor said on Saturday, citing what she said was their legitimate fear that the suspect was shooting at them. The decision not to charge the two officers in the death of Stephon Clark, 22, angered community activists and quickly touched off protests outside police headquarters in Sacramento, the California state capital. Clark was shot dead on March 18, 2018, in the backyard of his grandmother's home by police responding to reports that someone was breaking car windows on the street. The incident, like other fatal police shootings of young black men in recent years, sparked two weeks of demonstrations in the streets of Sacramento at the time and added fuel to a national debate on police use of deadly force.

Italy's biggest food fight is a citrus blast

3 Participants heave oranges at one another during the traditional Battle of the Oranges at the Ivrea Carnival near Turin. The Battle of the Oranges, the largest food fight in Italy, takes place during Carnival season and is a symbolic reenactment of a revolution which took place in Ivrea in the Middle Ages, featuring nine teams of walking aranceri (orange handlers) throwing oranges against aranceri riding on carts.

Booker visits Selma, says US failing its people

4 Presidential hopeful Cory Booker told a service commemorating the 1965 "Bloody Sunday" march, a turning point in the civil rights movement, that the United States is still failing many Americans, citing poverty and gun violence as constant threats. Booker, 49, a black second-term senator from New Jersey and former mayor of Newark, also lamented that clean water and affordable health care are still unavailable in many communities. "We live in a nation that is failing its moral obligations to its children, to its people," Booker said in a short speech at a church near the bridge in Selma, Alabama, where civil rights activists were attacked more than half a century ago. Nearly 600 activists marching for African-American voting rights were met on the Edmund Pettus bridge on March 7, 1965, by white state troopers who beat them with batons and sprayed them with tear gas.

SpaceX US capsule blasts off for space station

5 A SpaceX rocket with an unmanned crew capsule blasted off on Saturday for the International Space Station, in a key milestone for Elon Musk's space company and NASA's long-delayed goal to resume human spaceflight from U.S. soil later this year. SpaceX's 16-foot-tall Crew Dragon capsule, atop a Falcon 9 rocket, lifted off from Florida's Kennedy Space Center at 2:49 a.m., carrying a test dummy nicknamed Ripley. The capsule successfully separated from the rocket about 11 minutes later, sparking cheers in the control room, and began its journey to the space station. "I almost thought we would fail. I thought maybe we'd have a 10 percent chance of reaching orbit starting out," Silicon Valley billionaire Musk said of his feelings when he founded the space company in 2002. "I'm a little emotionally exhausted because that was super stressful, but it worked," he told reporters.

House panel launches probe into possible obstruction by Trump

President Donald Trump speaks at the Conservative Political Action Conference (CPAC) annual meeting. REUTERS

"It's very clear that the president obstructed justice," Rep Jerrold Nadler said.

The House Judiciary Committee will seek documents from more than 60 people and organizations as it begins investigations into possible obstruction of justice and abuse of power by President Donald Trump, the panel's chairman said on Sunday.

Committee Chairman Jerrold Nadler told ABC's "This Week" the panel wanted to get documents from the Department of Justice; the president's son, Donald Trump Jr.; and Trump Organization Chief Financial Officer Allen Weisselberg, among others.

"We are going to initiate investigations into abuses of power, into corruption … and into obstruction of justice," Nadler said. "It's our job to protect the rule of law.

"It's very clear that the president obstructed justice," Nadler said. He said it was too soon to consider whether impeachment should be pursued, however.

"Before you impeach somebody, you have to persuade the American public that it ought to happen," he said.

As evidence of obstruction, Nadler cited Trump's May 2017 firing of FBI Director James Comey, who was leading an investigation into Russia activities in the 2016 U.S. presidential election and possible collusion with Trump's campaign.

That investigation was subsequently taken over by Special Counsel Robert Mueller, who is expected to deliver his findings to the U.S. attorney general within weeks.

Nadler also cited what he called Trump's attempts to intimidate witnesses in the investigation.

He said the committee on Monday would release the list of people and organizations it would request documents from.

Trump has denied his campaign worked with Moscow. "I am an innocent man being persecuted by some very bad, conflicted & corrupt people in a Witch Hunt that is illegal & should never have been allowed to start," Trump said in a tweet on Sunday. REUTERS

New Kids on the Block star Danny Wood and Jessie Chris talk anti-bullying anthem "Bodyguard."

MATT JUUL

2019 is shaping up to be a big year for Danny Wood. Not only is the New Kids on the Block star preparing to embark on a massive tour to celebrate the 30th anniversary of the group's hit record "Hangin' Tough," but he also recently dropped a new single, "Bodyguard," a duet featuring the talents of rising country music artist Jessie Chris.

The new song means a lot to Wood, as he was inspired to write "Bodyguard" and reach out to Chris after seeing her anti-bullying speeches online. The singer is a vocal advocate on the issue, having been honored by the TLC Network last fall for her work, which includes visiting 100 schools across the nation to talk with kids about bullying. Chris is also the face of the AD Council's "Be More" campaign and an ambassador for Disney's "Choose Kindness" campaign.

"Seeing Jessie, she's inspired me to be more passionate about [anti-bullying]," Wood tells Metro, noting how Chris has given him a "better understanding" of how kids are affected by bullying in today's social media-obsessed world. Now that he's a father, Wood was particularly interested in the issue of online bullying. "Having kids that are older and on social media, kids these days get it now from both angles."

For Chris, the Massachusetts native and "Billboard Artist to Watch" decided to get involved with the cause after getting bullied in school over her dream of wanting to be a country music singer.

"That wasn't common or popular and that's why I got bullied," Chris says. "That's why, for me, speaking about anti-bullying is so important because it really messes with you forever."

"Even though I'm a lot stronger now, there'll always be something deep in there that sticks with me from everything I went through," she adds. "That's why it's so important for me to kind of be like a big sister to the kids at these schools that I visit."

Aside from their mutual Boston connection, Wood could relate with Chris over her school experiences, as he was bullied as well when he was a kid. The NKOTB star recalls getting picked on for being the only white student at an all-black school during Boston's infamous busing era.

"It kind of brought back some of those memories," Wood says of working on "Bodyguard" with Chris.

As a veteran of the music industry, Wood was happy to take on the mentor role while working with Chris and shine a light on an up-and-coming artist.

"I just wanted to make it as easy as possible for her," says Wood. "I know the struggle of being in the music business."

"Older people in the music business don't understand, they're like 'When I grew up it was so much harder,'" he adds. "No it really wasn't man. Kids are getting it from two angles all the time now and you don't understand."

Cheers to Massachusetts Beer Week

Raise a glass to health, wealth and the pursuit of hoppiness.

MOIRA CALLAHAN
letters@metro.us

A wise man once said, "a fine beer may be judged with only one sip … but it's better to be thoroughly sure." After all, is there anything better than beer? The Massachusetts Brewers Guild doesn't think so, and it's dedicated a whole week to Mass-brewed drafts. Here's our guide of the best ways to celebrate Massachusetts Beer Week.

Harpoon Board Game Night

Are you looking for a chill celebration night in Boston? Head over to Harpoon Brewery for Board Game Night. It's celebrating Beer Week with classic board games paired with classic beers. This event isn't ticketed. The only thing you need to bring is some friends and a love of beer. As a bonus, Harpoon is raffling off tickets for their St. Patty's Celebration on March 8! March 5, 5 p.m.-8 p.m., Harpoon Brewery, 306 Northern Ave., harpoonbrewery.com

Fat Tuesday Chef Dinner Series at Remnant Brewery

Maybe you prefer a three-course meal along with your beer? Remnant Brewery is continuing their Fat Tuesday Chef Dinner Series, featuring a plated meal and beer pairings. Remnant Brewery is also bringing out some exclusive beers that are only available for this dinner. Buy your tickets now! March 5, 7:30 p.m.-9 p.m., Remnant Brewing, 2 Bow Market Way, Somerville, $75, remnantsomerville.com

The Barking Crab & Ipswich Brewery Luau Party

The local seafood restaurant is collaborating with the Ipswich Brewery to celebrate the latter's new Pina-Colada inspired IPA. On March 6, The Barking Crab and the Ipswich Brewery invite Bostonians to join them for its Mid-Winter Shucking Good Luau Party. Throw on your best Hawaiian shirt and be one of the first to taste the newest variation on the brewery's "Ipswich 1620" beer. But wait, there's more! Guests can sip nine Ipswich classics in a nine-tap takeover, as well as creative "beertails." While you sip, dance along to some island-inspired tunes by PanNeubean Steel, or shimmy under a beer can limbo to win Ipswich Brewery prizes! The Ipswich Brewery founders will be around to chat with guests about what's brewing next. March 6, 6 p.m.-11 p.m., The Barking Crab, 88 Sleeper St., barkingcrab.com

An Evening of Beer and Food Pairings

Craft beers are the perfect accompaniment to food beyond just pizza and burgers. Enjoy a beer and small plate dinner at Powisset Farm with session brewer, Zelus Beer Company. Chef and cookbook author Leigh Belanger is crafting savory and sweet plates to compliment the beer flights, and explaining why the two belong together. March 7, 6:30 p.m.-8:30 p.m., Powisset Farm, 37 Powisset St., Dover, $72+, thetrustees.org

Mass Brewers Guild Winter Classic

Mass Beer Week closes out with the Winter Classic charity hockey game. Brewers trade their rubber boots for hockey skates and lace up to raise money for the Mass Brewers Guild. MBG is the state's trade association that protects the interests of craft brewers across the Commonwealth, and organizes Mass Beer Week. Family, friends and beer fans can cheer on their favorite players and those who are 21+ can enjoy a beer tasting from the stands. Breweries featured at the event include, Bay State Brewing Co., Greater Good Imperial Ales, Salt Box Kitchen, Stone Cow Brewing Co., Tree House Brewing Co., Vanished Valley Brewing Co., Wachusett Brewing Co., Widowmaker Brewing Co. and Wormtown Brewery. General admission for the game is $15 and $45 for attendees who plan on drinking. The family-friendly event is free for children under 13. March 9, 5 p.m.-7 p.m., Fidelity Bank Worcester Ice Center, 112 Harding Street, $15+, Worcester, massbrewersguild.org

Red-hot Bruins keep finding ways to win, look like Cup contenders

Boston has collected points in 16 straight games.

RICHARD SLATE
sports@metro.us

Bruins goalie Tuukka Rask is helping lead the Bruins on their 16-game point streak. GETTY IMAGES

They can't all be masterpieces, but what matters most in sports are the final results. Right now, the Bruins (39-17-9) are the hottest team in the NHL.

After Saturday's mostly actionless 1-0 victory over the New Jersey Devils at TD Garden, Boston extended its point streak to a whopping 16 games (12-0-4).

Obviously, during such a long stretch of quality play many players have made big contributions, but it would be hard to argue that anyone has been more stellar than goaltender Tuukka Rask (22-8-5). With his third shutout of the season and 44th of his career, Rask pushed his personal point streak to 17 games (14-0-3). There are only 17 games left in the regular season and the B's have rounded into form as true Stanley Cup contenders.

"Rask is really in the zone right now," noted head coach Bruce Cassidy after Saturday's win. "He deserved a lot of credit tonight, especially early on, letting guys know he was ready to go."

To give you some more perspective on this run that he's been on (1.87 goals-against average and .933 save percentage), Rask has yet to suffer a loss in regulation in 2019 (his last setback came on Dec. 23 at Carolina). He also became only the second goaltender in NHL history to post multiple point streaks of at least 17 decisions in his career, joining former Bruins netminder Pete Peeters.

Boston's special teams have been very good lately, and in the case of the power play (ranked No. 2 in the league), basically all season. Adding veteran forwards Marcus Johansson and Charlie Coyle has given the team more depth up front, which will only get even more impressive when star David Pastrnak returns from his thumb injury.

The defense has come together quite well as they have allowed a total of five goals in their past five games and only two in their last three. Back-to-back 4-1 wins against the San Jose Sharks and NHL-best Tampa Bay Lightning at the Garden started to open up many eyes around the league that the Bruins are far from a fluke.

"It's not always going to be pretty," explained Coyle. "Sometimes it goes that way, but all we care about is the win. Since the first game, our line has kept building and it feels like we're right there [to get a goal]. We're getting chances and opportunities so it's going to happen soon."

After a day off on Sunday and practice on Monday, the B's return with another three-home-game week starting on Tuesday (7 p.m., NESN) vs. Carolina (36-23-6) who is also on fire with five straight wins of their own and they are 8-2-0 in their last 10 games. Florida (28-25-11) is here on Thursday (7 p.m., NESN) and they've fallen out of playoff contention, while Ottawa (22-38-5), the worst team in the NHL, wraps up the homestand on Saturday night (7 p.m., NESN). At 24-7-3, Boston owns the second-best home record in the league (trailing only Tampa Bay).

Let's paint a different picture for Tourette syndrome.

Whether they've been diagnosed with Tourette syndrome or not, if your child is 6 to 16 years old, local doctors need their help with the ARTISTS study testing an investigational medication's ability to reduce symptoms.

This is a no-cost research study and compensation may be available for time and travel.

If your child has Tourette syndrome, learn more about the ARTISTS study.

metro.us/horoscopes

Aries Look past someone who is negative and choose positive alternatives that will expand your mind and encourage you to do and be your best. Kindness and a helping hand will win favors.

Taurus Refuse to let your emotions get in the way of your productivity. When something doesn't go your way, focus on your own performance instead of complaining or arguing about something you cannot change.

Gemini You'll be offered false information. Don't act in haste, or you may end up looking bad or being blamed for something you didn't do. Stick to the facts.

Cancer Working with people you find innovative will spark your imagination. Don't hold back. If you put some energy behind your plans, good things will transpire. Trust your instincts.

Leo A change is possible if you are sincere about what you want. Don't let jealousy lead to bad conduct and regret. Size up a situation and be mature.

Virgo Traveling, attending meetings and exploring new possibilities are favored. If you make changes for the right reasons, you'll get what you want. Straightforwardly address sensitive issues with honesty and integrity.

Libra A change at home will leave you questioning how to best move forward. Take better care of your health and well-being. Joint ventures should be handled with caution.

Scorpio Take on a new hobby, do more with friends and relatives and be open to new ideas. Listen carefully and make choices based on your beliefs and plans.

Sagittarius Listen to your heart and pay attention to what others do and say. Refuse to let someone coerce you into a fight or interfere in your affairs. Offer peace, not chaos.

Capricorn A change to the way you handle your personal affairs should be kept secret. Take care of personal paperwork to ensure that you have everything up-to-date.

Aquarius A kind gesture will lead to a positive change. How you earn or handle your money will be subject to change. Get what you want in writing before you agree to a deal.

Pisces Embrace practical and promising changes. Refuse to let temptation take charge and lead you astray. Work with others to achieve the most and make a difference. EUGENIA LAST
